Why was I charged a $15 foreign transaction fee on my statement?

I'm sorry to hear about the unexpected fee. I've pulled up the most recent invoice for your account (Invoice #1092, paid $45.00 on 2026-09-15) and there are no additional charges listed on that statement—no foreign-transaction fee appears in our records.

Foreign-transaction fees are usually applied by the card-issuing bank (or the payment processor you used) rather than by our billing system. It's possible the fee was added by the merchant's payment gateway or by your bank when the transaction was processed.

Could you let me know:

1. The date and merchant of the transaction that incurred the $15 fee?
2. The transaction ID or reference number (if you have it)?
3. Whether the charge appears on your bank statement or only on your card-issuer's statement?

With that information I can cross-check the exact transaction in our system and help you determine whether it was a merchant-side fee, a bank-side foreign-transaction fee, or something else. In the meantime, if the fee is coming from your bank, you may want to contact them directly to dispute the charge.
